MOGATHON

Official Hackathon Rules

NO PURCHASE OR PAYMENT IS NECESSARY TO ENTER OR WIN

1. Contest overview

Mogathon is an online hackathon organized and run by LionBio Therapeutics ("LionBio"), in partnership with Baton Corporation Ltd ("Pump.fun") and speedrun. It is a contest of skill. Winners are chosen only by judging Project Submissions against the criteria in Section 9, and chance plays no part in picking them.

The Contest has two Tracks. The Decentralized Science (DeSci) Track is for projects that change how research is funded, run or shared, and its prizes are funded by LionBio. The Blockchain Technology Track is for onchain products, protocols and infrastructure, and its prizes are funded by Pump.fun. speedrun, the accelerator program of a16z, supports LionBio with judging.

2. Definitions

"Administrator" means LionBio, which organizes, hosts and runs the Contest and is the only party responsible for administering it.

"Partners" means Pump.fun, which funds the prizes for the Blockchain Technology Track, and speedrun, which supports the Administrator with judging. The Partners do not administer the Contest.

"Contest" means the Mogathon hackathon described in these Official Rules.

"Contest Period" means the period set out in Section 5.

"Contest Site" means the Mogathon website operated by the Administrator, on which these Official Rules are published.

"Content" means everything an Entrant submits in connection with the Contest, including Profile Information, a Project Submission, code, text, images and video.

"Entrant" means an Individual who meets the eligibility requirements in Section 3, accepts these Official Rules in full and takes part in the Contest, alone or as a Member of a Team.

"Immediate Family" means a spouse or partner, parent, sibling, child or member of the same household.

"Individual" means a natural person.

"Member" means an Individual taking part in the Contest as part of a Team.

"Official Token" means the token that the Administrator names as the official token of the Contest, whose contract address is published on the Contest Site.

"Prize Acceptance Documents" means any documents the Administrator requires a potential winner to complete and sign before being confirmed as a winner.

"Profile Information" means the information, including personal information, that an Individual provides in order to register.

"Project Submission" means the work an Entrant or Team submits for judging.

"Promotional Materials" means marketing and publicity materials about the Contest produced by or for the Administrator, which may include an Entrant's name, likeness and Content.

"Released Parties" means the Administrator, the Partners, the judges, and each of their parent companies, subsidiaries, affiliates, suppliers and prize providers, together with the officers, directors, employees and agents of each of them.

"Team" means a group of Individuals who take part in the Contest together.

"Team Lead" means the Member who registers the Team, acts as its contact and representative, and receives any prize on its behalf.

"Token Reward" means the allocation of digital tokens described in Section 15 that is awarded to a winner in addition to a cash prize.

"Track" means either of the two categories of the Contest described in Section 1.

3. Eligibility

The Contest is open worldwide to Individuals who meet all of the following requirements.

(a) Age. At the start of the Contest Period the Individual is at least 18 years old, or the age of majority where they live if that is older. An Individual who does not meet this age requirement but still wants to take part may write to hello@lion.bio, and the Administrator will decide case by case, at its sole discretion, whether they may enter.

(b) Sanctions and export controls. The following are not eligible:

  (i) anyone located in, or ordinarily resident in, a country or region that is subject to comprehensive sanctions or export controls that apply to the Administrator, currently Afghanistan, Belarus, Cuba, Iran, North Korea, Russia, Somalia, Syria, Venezuela, Yemen, and the Crimea, Sevastopol, Donetsk, Luhansk, Zaporizhzhia and Kherson regions of Ukraine;

  (ii) anyone who is personally subject to sanctions that apply to the Administrator, or who is employed by or acting for an entity that is; and

  (iii) anyone living in a place where taking part in the Contest, or receiving a prize, is prohibited by law.

(c) People connected with the Contest. Employees, contractors, directors and officers of the Administrator, of the Partners and of their affiliates, the judges, and the Immediate

Family of each of them, are not eligible.

(d) Employer and third-party permission. By entering, each Individual confirms that taking part does not breach any duty they owe to an employer or any other third party, including an employer's policies and any contract they have signed.

(e) Proof. The Administrator may ask an Entrant to prove their identity and eligibility at any time and may disqualify an Entrant who does not.

(f) Void where prohibited.

4. General conditions of participation

(a) An Entrant accepts these Official Rules in full by ticking the official rules box when registering on the Contest Site. Receiving any prize depends on the Entrant following these Official Rules in full.

(b) The Administrator's decisions on every matter relating to the Contest, including who has won, are final and binding.

(c) By entering, the Entrant confirms that taking part, and accepting any prize, will not break any law, regulation or rule that applies where the Entrant lives, and that no prize is given in return for a promise to influence any act or decision that could win or keep business for the Administrator or a Partner.

(d) To the extent the law allows, the Administrator may cancel, suspend or change the Contest, or any part of it, if fraud, technical failure, human error or any other cause harms the integrity or proper running of the Contest.

(e) The Administrator may disqualify any Entrant it finds to be tampering with the Contest, breaking these Official Rules, or acting in an unsporting or disruptive way. Deliberately trying to undermine the Contest may be unlawful, and the Administrator reserves the right to seek damages and any other remedy the law allows.

(f) The Administrator is not responsible for entry information or Content that is wrong or incomplete, whatever the cause, including equipment, software or human error.

(g) The Administrator may change these Official Rules at any time. It will post the current version on the Contest Site and make reasonable efforts to tell Entrants about any change that matters.

5. Timing

The Contest Period starts at 12:00pm Pacific Time (PT, UTC−8) on 13 November 2026 and ends at 12:00pm Pacific Time on 21 November 2026. Winners will be announced after judging is complete, on a date the Administrator will post on the Contest Site.

The Administrator's clock is the official clock for the Contest, and each Entrant is responsible for working out the matching time where they are. If any date changes, the Administrator will post the change on the Contest Site.

6. Registration and submission

(a) Registering. To take part, each Individual must register on the Contest Site before the end of the Contest Period and provide the information asked for, which includes their name, email address and chosen Track.

(b) Submitting. The Entrant, or the Team Lead for a Team, must send in the Project Submission before the end of the Contest Period, by following the submission instructions on the Contest Site.

(c) One Track. Each Project Submission is entered in one Track only. The Administrator may move a Project Submission to the other Track if it fits there better.

(d) Project tokens. No Entrant or Team is required to launch a token. If an Entrant or Team launches a token for the project it enters in the Contest, that token must be launched through Pump.fun and paired with the Official Token. When registering, each Entrant must give the contract address of any such token, or state that there is none. The Administrator may disqualify a Project Submission whose token does not meet this requirement.

(e) Late or incomplete registrations and Project Submissions will not be accepted. Failing to provide Profile Information, or providing false information, is a ground for disqualification.

(f) Profile Information, including a Team's name, must follow the content rules in Section 13. The Administrator may require a Team to change its name.

7. Teams and limits

An Entrant may take part alone or as a Member of a Team. An Entrant may be a Member of one Team only, and a Team may enter one Project Submission only.

Entrants should not expect anything they disclose in their Profile Information or Project Submission to be kept confidential.

8. Tracks and Partners

(a) Decentralized Science (DeSci) Track. Prizes for this Track are funded by LionBio.

(b) Blockchain Technology Track. Prizes for this Track are funded by Pump.fun.

(c) Judging support. speedrun supports the Administrator with judging across both Tracks.

(d) The Partners take part in the Contest only in the ways described in these Official Rules. Naming a Partner here does not make it responsible for running the Contest, and questions about the Contest should go to the Administrator.

9. How winners are chosen

Each eligible Project Submission will be judged by the Administrator and a panel of judges appointed by the Administrator, with support from speedrun. Project Submissions are judged against the following criteria.

(a) Functionality. How well does the project work, and how good is the code?

(b) Potential impact. How large is the opportunity the project addresses, and what effect could it have on its field and on the wider crypto ecosystem?

(c) Novelty. How original is the idea?

(d) User experience. How well does the project use its technology to make something people find easy and worthwhile to use?

(e) Open source. Is the project open source, and how well does it work with other tools and protocols in its ecosystem?

(f) Business plan. Could a lasting business or organization be built around the project, and how well placed is the Team to build it?

If two or more Project Submissions are tied, the Administrator will decide between them using the same criteria. The Administrator and the judges are not required to give feedback on any Project Submission.

10. Intellectual property kept by the Entrant

The Administrator and the Partners do not claim ownership of any Project Submission. During and after the Contest, Entrants keep whatever intellectual property rights they have in their Project Submission, and protecting those rights is the Entrant's own responsibility.

Entrants must make sure that no third party has rights in, or claims over, anything included in their Project Submission that would prevent it being entered, and must tell the Administrator on request about the ownership and licence terms of any open-source or other third-party material they have used.

Each Entrant gives the Administrator and the Partners a non-exclusive, worldwide, royalty-free licence to display, describe and demonstrate the Project Submission for the purposes of judging, running and publicizing the Contest.

11. Intellectual property kept by the Administrator

The Administrator keeps all rights in the Promotional Materials. Entrants may not use the names, logos or trademarks of the Administrator or the Partners without written permission from the party that owns them.

12. Personal information

Except as set out in these Official Rules, the Administrator handles the information an Entrant submits in line with its privacy policy at https://lion.bio/privacy.html.

By accepting these Official Rules and taking part, the Entrant agrees that the Administrator may share the information the Entrant provides with the judges and the Partners, so far as that is needed to run and judge the Contest and to award prizes. By accepting these Official Rules the Entrant also agrees to receive emails from LionBio about the Contest and about LionBio, and may unsubscribe at any time.

Personal information collected may include name, email address, country of residence, Team name and wallet address. It is used to contact Entrants about the Contest, to confirm eligibility, to judge Project Submissions and to pay prizes. The Administrator does not give personal information to anyone else except where needed to run the Contest, to meet a legal requirement, to protect its rights or property, or to enforce these Official Rules.

Personal information may be transferred to, stored in and processed in countries other than the one where the Entrant lives, including by the Administrator's staff and suppliers, and those countries may not protect personal information to the same standard. The Entrant agrees to this.

Entrants may ask to see, correct or delete their personal information, or object to its use, by writing to hello@lion.bio. Entrants in the European Economic Area and the United Kingdom may also withdraw their consent at any time, without affecting anything lawfully done before they withdrew it, may ask for a copy of their information in a portable format, and may complain to their local data protection authority.

13. Content rules

All Content must be in English and must meet every one of the following conditions.

(a) The Entrant owns the Content or has every right needed to submit it and to grant the rights given in these Official Rules.

(b) The Content does not infringe anyone else's rights, including intellectual property, privacy and publicity rights.

(c) The Entrant has permission from every person who appears in the Content to use their name and likeness.

(d) The Content does not disparage the Administrator, the Partners or anyone else connected with the Contest.

(e) The Content contains no virus, malware, spyware or other code that is malicious, deceptive or designed to harm or limit a computer or network.

(f) The Content is not indecent, obscene, hateful, defamatory or otherwise unlawful, and does not promote hatred, harm or discrimination against any person or group on the basis of race, gender, religion, nationality, disability, sexual orientation or age.

(g) The Content complies with the law in every country where it was made, and with the terms of any third-party platform it is hosted on.

14. Announcing and confirming winners

Winners will be announced on the Contest Site after judging is complete. The Administrator will contact each potential winner at the email address given at registration. A potential winner who does not reply within the time stated in that message may lose the prize, and the Administrator may then award it to the next-ranked Project Submission.

Becoming a winner depends on completing the Prize Acceptance Documents and any other documents the Administrator or the Partner funding the prize requires, and on passing their identity, eligibility and due diligence checks.

15. Prizes

Prize values are stated before tax. The Administrator may add further awards later.

(a) Prize pool. The total cash prize pool for the Contest is US$400,000 across both Tracks.

(b) Split. How the prize pool is divided between the two Tracks, the number of prizes in each Track and the amount of each will be published on the Contest Site.

(c) Who funds the prizes. Prizes for the DeSci Track are funded by LionBio. Prizes for the Blockchain Technology Track are funded by Pump.fun.

(d) Token Reward. Each winner also receives a Token Reward. The token, the amount for each winner and any lock-up or vesting terms will be published on the Contest Site.

(e) Form of payment. Cash prizes will be paid in US dollars or in a US-dollar stablecoin, as the Administrator decides.

(f) Conditions on Token Rewards. A Token Reward may be subject to separate terms, to transfer restrictions and to legal limits that depend on where the winner lives. Neither the Administrator nor any Partner makes any promise about the present or future value of any token. Where the Administrator cannot lawfully deliver a Token Reward to a winner, it may replace it with another prize under Section 16(e).

16. Taxes and other prize conditions

(a) Stated prize values do not include any tax or fee that may be due when a winner receives a prize. Each winner is responsible for all tax reporting and payment required where they live.

(b) A prize won by a Team is paid to the Team Lead, who is responsible for sharing it among the Members. The Administrator and the Partners are not responsible for any dispute between Members about how a prize is shared.

(c) A winner may be required to provide a wallet address, as directed by the Administrator, in order to receive a prize.

(d) Prizes cannot be transferred or substituted, except with the Administrator's written permission.

(e) If a prize, or any part of one, cannot be awarded for any reason, the Administrator may replace it with a prize of equal or greater value.

(f) By accepting a prize, and to the extent the law allows, each winner releases the Released Parties from every claim arising out of taking part in the Contest or receiving, using or misusing a prize. This release does not apply to claims for personal injury or death, or to claims based on intent or gross negligence.

(g) Nothing in these Official Rules takes away or limits any right an Entrant has under consumer protection law that cannot lawfully be taken away or limited.

17. No employment, investment or confidential relationship

Nothing in these Official Rules is an offer of, or a contract for, employment. Taking part in the Contest, or winning it, does not entitle any Entrant to funding or investment from the Administrator or any Partner, or to a place in any program run by any of them, including speedrun.

Each Entrant submits Profile Information and a Project Submission voluntarily, and not in confidence or in trust. No confidential, fiduciary, agency or other special relationship, and no implied contract, exists between an Entrant and any of the Released Parties, and none is created by submitting Content.

18. Entrant conduct

The Administrator may carry out background checks on Entrants during the Contest. An Entrant who is sponsored by a third party must have that sponsor approved in writing by the Administrator in advance. Entrants must deal honestly and respectfully with other Entrants, the judges, the Administrator and the Partners.

19. Limits on liability

To the extent the law allows, the Released Parties are not liable for: (1) information that is wrong or inaccurate, whatever the cause; (2) technical failures of any kind, including faults, interruptions or lost connections in any network, hardware or software; (3) unauthorized interference with any part of the Contest; (4) communications that are late, lost, undeliverable, damaged or stolen; (5) any loss arising from taking part in the Contest or from accepting or using a prize, including any change in the value of a token; and (6) any claim that an Entrant's Content is similar to, or competes with, anything developed independently by the Administrator or a Partner or received by either of them from someone else, including another Entrant.

20. Disputes

(a) Except where the law does not allow it, each Entrant agrees that any dispute or claim arising out of the Contest or any prize will be resolved individually and not as part of a class or group action, and that any award is limited to the Entrant's actual out-of-pocket costs of entering. The Entrant gives up any right to indirect, punitive, incidental or consequential damages and to legal fees.

(b) These Official Rules, and the rights and duties of Entrants and the Administrator in connection with the Contest, are governed by the laws of the State of California, United States, without applying any rule that would lead to the law of another place being used.

(c) Any dispute arising out of the Contest will be finally resolved by arbitration under the Rules of Arbitration of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC), before one arbitrator. Except where the law does not allow it, the legal seat of the arbitration is San Francisco, California, United States. Proceedings will be in English.

(d) Residents of Colombia, Finland, Germany and Spain only. The limit on the amount of damages in paragraph (a) does not apply.

(e) Residents of Poland only. A complaint about how the Contest was run may be sent in writing to the Administrator within 21 days of the end of the Contest. It must give the Entrant's name and address and describe the complaint in detail. The Administrator will decide the complaint within 14 days of receiving it and will send its decision to the Entrant in writing within 7 days of deciding.

(f) Nothing in this Section removes any protection that the mandatory law of an Entrant's country of residence gives them.

21. Severability and waiver

If any part of these Official Rules is found to be invalid, unlawful or unenforceable in a particular case, it will be enforced as far as the law allows, and the rest of these Official Rules, and that part as it applies in other cases, will stay in force. If the Administrator does not enforce a term of these Official Rules, that is not a waiver of the term.

22. List of winners and contact

The list of winners will be published on the Contest Site. Questions about the Contest or these Official Rules should be sent to the Administrator at hello@lion.bio.
